Then we had parties and all that after I come home and settled down in civvy life and my wife said to me, 'But you're going back aren't you?', I said, 'What?!', she said, 'You're signing up on aren't you?'. I said, 'No, I'm not. I shall live here now'. I said, 'my captain, what's his name, wants me to sign on'. She said, 'Will you throw all the service away that you got? Why don't you go back?' But I said no. I said, 'Don't you realise what I've gone through?' she said, 'Yes, and so have we here. Running all round here'. She said, 'That haven't been very nice at all'.
